Dear Mrs. Manley:

We tried to reach you by phone today for the reason that one of the players, Irving by name, was in and selected shoes, sweat socks and sweat shirts.

He wanted to have the merchandise delivered to him and charged to your account. We told Irving that we could not do this unless we had a written authorization from you and we gave him one of our business cards so that you or Mr. Manley could call us tomorrow and we could send the merchandise to the training camp.

I might mention that I wrote you on March 28th at 101 Montgomery Street, advising that we could supply all of your ball players with the necessary equipment that they might desire and in the same class which they formerly bought from Spalding's at the wholesale prices. Believing that you may not have received this letter, I am addressing this letter to your home.

If you want the equipment selected by Irving shipped to the training camp, will you kindly phone me tomorrow.

Yours very truly,

Tom Tabuer
